VOL. 51—NO. 15

Maryville, Missouri

March 5, 1965

Editorial . . .

Sunday evening, March 7, marks the beginning of Religious Emphasis week on the campus of the Northwest Missouri State College. All 10 o'clock classes will be dismissed on March 8 in order for students to attend the opening convocation in the auditorium in the Administration Building. I hope that members of the student body will make every effort to be present for the convocation.

This college has long recognized the value of religion and the part that it plays in the lives of the faculty and students. Indeed, Religious Emphasis Week has a long and valued tradition on our campus. We have for many years enjoyed the activity and enthusiastic participation of various religious groups, and the contributions of these groups have done much to add to the success of our college.

I hope that the faculty and student body will give as much time as possible to participate in the various events scheduled for Religious Emphasis Week. I feel certain that the opportunity to meet and talk with the Religious leaders being brought to our campus for this activity will be not only a most stimulating experience but also one of inspirational and educational value to those who participate.

To Hold Seminar On Bill of Rights

A seminar on the Bill of Rights for teachers will be presented at Northwest Missouri State College on Mar. 12 by the Missouri Bar Association and the MSC division of social science.

The seminar is designed to increase understanding of the Bill of Rights and to present its history, meaning and practical application of the constitutional guarantees. Attention will also be given to the legal processes through which the Bill of Rights has been interpreted and enforced.

Beginning at 9:30 a. m., the seminar will be held in the main auditorium of the Administration Building.

The course will involve four lectures and discussion periods. John Scurlock, professor of law at the University of Missouri at Kansas City, will talk on the "Protection of the Individual against the State." Norman Anderson, Attorney General of Missouri, will discuss the "Guarantees for a Fair Trial." Judge Andrew J. Higgins, Commissioner, Missouri Supreme Court, will talk on "First Amendment Rights." William P. Murphy, a professor of law at the School of Law of the University of Missouri, Columbia, will discuss "Equality Under Law."

Businessmen to Lecture In Business Program

The department of business of Northwest Missouri State College has inaugurated a series of annual lectures by distinguished businessmen from the Midwest, according to Dr. Elwyn DeVore, chairman of the department.

On March 4 Norman Strayer, Jr., lectured on insurance. Other lectures in the series will be given by Don K Spaulding, president of the St. Joseph Stock Yards on Mar. 10, and M. J. Allen, vice-president of Amsted Industries, Inc., on Mar. 18.

Faculty Vote Modifies Degree Requirements in Social Science

As a result of a faculty vote, a number of changes will be made in the curriculum and degree requirements in the Social Science Department. One of these changes affects students with less than 60 academic hours. If students are working toward a B. S. in Education, they must have a major or minor in history or political science if the resulting major or minor is in an unrelated field. All other students with a major or minor in the department, such as geography or sociology, must take a major or minor in a related field. As an example, it would be possible for a student to take a history major with a physical education minor but not possible for a student to major in social science with a minor in physical education. This ruling is not applicable to students working toward a B. A. or straight B. S. degree; however, the ruling will be advised for all students not included in the requirement.

Beginning in the fall semester of 1965 all students, regardless of degree, will be required to take a comprehensive examination for purposes of testing the competence of the student in his fields. This requirement must be completed before the student will be qualified to begin student teaching assignments. For those students working toward a straight B. S. or B. A. degree, the requirement must be completed before graduation. Upon request study aids will be issued to students for the purpose of preparing for this examination.

A number of curriculum changes will be made in the form of new courses to be added, as well as changes in the degree requirements. Some of the new courses which will be made available in the near future are political theory, public administration, and new courses in geography. Students will be offered more freedom of selection of courses with the advice and consent of their advisor in the social science division.

Any person with a major or minor in the social science division is urged to contact any of the faculty members in that department for further information about these changes in requirements and curriculum.

NEA to Meet March 10

The John Dewey Chapter of Student N. E. A. held its regular meeting in the Gold Room of the Union Building, Wednesday, February 24. Nancy Boyd was elected historian for the coming term and Kathy Riddle was appointed editor of a soon-to-be-published S. N. E. A. campus newspaper. Discussion was held on the forthcoming workshop and conference. A committee was appointed to make plans for the S. N. E. A. tour of high schools to be held March 16. The program for the evening was a panel of student teachers. Mary Mast introduced the panel which consisted of Martha Klever, Keith Lambertson, and Sharon Coughlin. Questions and comments were discussed by the panel. The next meeting will be held March 10 in the Gold Room.

Debate Team to Fayette

The college debate team will attend a tournament at Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo., the weekend of March 13. Mr. Winsor is taking Galen Buckey, Charla Albertson, Gail Holliday, and Scott Hodgins. The debate team will hold an intra-squad tournament in March. This tournament will be open to the public.

The MSC baseball team will open its 1965 season on April 3 against Rockhurst in Kansas City, according to the schedule released by Coach Burton Richey.

AWS SUGGESTION BOXES

Read 'n' Digest is a pamphlet issued to each girl living in the women's residence halls pertaining to those rules and regulations she must follow. It is compiled by AWS.

The AWS Revision Committee for Read 'n' Digest recently held a meeting at which it was decided that a revision of the booklet was necessary. Each AWS representative has, therefore, set up a suggestion box in her particular section of the dorm. Girls are invited to submit suggestions concerning new rules or the revision of old ones.

The suggestions will be accumulated and compiled when the committee meets again to establish the rules for next semester.

The main reason for setting up suggestion boxes is that it will provide an opportunity for each girl to take part in the revision of the rules she will have to live by.

The members of the Revision Committee consist of the AWS Executive Council, AWS General Council, two Dorm Council members from each dorm, and one counselor from each dorm.

'Cat Wrestlers Close Out Year With 13th Win

The Northwest State College wrestling team keeps improving and keeps battering competition and they proved it again Tuesday night when they trampled Graceland College, 31-8, in a match at Lamoni, Ia., to close out their dual match season.

Coach Jerry Landwer's team streaked to its 35th straight dual mat win and 13th of the season by gaining four pins out of the seven matches they won. Al Packer, Lonny Wieland and Ron James did not even falter in going after more records and keeping their win skins alive.

Packer, the 167-pounder, has won 25 matches in a row, including his pin in 3:10 Tuesday over his Graceland foe. Wieland wracked up his 24 victory with the fastest pin of the evening in 1:41, and Ron James kept his slim point lead with a pin in his match. James' time was 3:18.

The Bearcats got back at Graceland for an earlier occurrence this year on the Maryville mats. The 'Cats stopped Graceland, 29-13, last Tuesday, but the 13 points tallied by Graceland was the highest score this year in dual matches against the Green and White, so Landwer's charges got revenge.

Clark Carnahan wrestled an exhibition match at 115 pounds, winning for Maryville, and Harvey Hallum started MSC rolling in 123-pound action with a decision over his man. At 130 pounds, Al Jensen gained a win by decision, and in 137-pound competition, Paul Stehman won his match for Maryville by default. The three stompers followed for Maryville, James at 147, Wieland at 157 and Packer at 167, and their results are given above.

In the 177-pound class, Al Borkowski dropped his match to his Graceland opponent, and at 191, Bob Reece of Maryville was pinned. Heavyweight Juan Mohr closed the action on a winning note for Maryville, pinning his man in 5:00.

In a comment about the match and the way the college team looks, Coach Landwer stated, "Since the University of Missouri match, our kids have really improved tremendously. It's hard keeping kids up mentally and also improving, but they're really making an extra effort."

Any student interested in foreign service work as a career will be given an opportunity to apply this spring. The deadline for application is Mar. 15. The official examination supplied by the Department of State will be given on May 1.

Union Board

Winners of the MSC campus bowling and table tennis tournaments competed in the region 11 tourneys at Manhattan, Kansas recently.

Bowlers Joel Day, Tom Warren, Dennis Holbrook, J.B. Watsabaugh, and Gary Cain and tennis table enthusiasts Scott Hodgkin, Phil Dean, and Lee King, sponsored by the MSC union board, competed in the spacious $2,650,000 Kansas State Student Union building. Tournament competition came from representatives of Big Eight schools. The Universities of Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Kansas were represented the tournament.

Hodgkin was the only MSC student to advance to the quarter finals in his respective tourney. The expenses of the trip were paid by the local Union Board. Steve Neuroth, chairman of the tournaments and games committee at Northwest State, and Mr. Ross Surplus accompanied the group to Manhattan.
